A brief note of thanks to your and the agency for arranging the seminar for our student group on March 30. The discussion went extremely well, and dovetailed nicely with our earlier session at INR. I, personally, am very grateful for your efforts to arrange transportation, without which we probably could not have made it out to Langley. Though not part of our original plans, the visit to the Agency's headquarters was an extremely useful part of the trip, one whose consequences will be enduring. As perhaps nothing else could, the site visit helped de-mystify the CIA--an important educational experience. Again my thanks.

Very truly yours,

Dear [REDACTED]

A brief note of thanks to you and your colleagues for taking time from your busy schedules to talk to our small student group. They were all most impressed by the depth of understanding which your analysts revealed and, interestingly, by the existence of somewhat different perspectives within the agency on specific issues. This was, from my point of view, a particularly useful experience. These students now have to reconcile the simplistic notions regarding government policy-making common to most of their peers with their now somewhat more complex sense of reality. Again, our thanks.

Very truly yours,

To reconfirm plans, we will be coming out to Langley (by means to be arranged and communicated to Martha Mautner in INR) on Thursday, March 30 (by about 2:30?). That morning, we will be in INR, where we will focus on bilateral (Soviet-American) relations, with some attention to the Soviet domestic scene. If your people could address themselves to "Eurocommunism" and Sino-Soviet matters, this would work out very well.

Looking forward to meeting you.

Sincerely,
